

and

Congratulations! Your child is about to embark on an exciting journey of discovery. This opportunity has been provided by Kent Children's University working in partnership with Canterbury Cathedral

An educational pack has been designed for completion as children explore the Cathedral. If there is a question which cannot be answered we suggest your child first looks for clues, asks an assistant, they are wearing an orange sash and will be delighted to help - or (if they are really stuck) gets help from his/her parents.

Once the booklet is completed by your child please take it to the Welcome Centre where it will be checked and your child will receive a stamp in his/her Passport to Learning. When your child has received 8 credits please return the passport (not the activity booklet) to The Children's University so they can send a Kent Children's University certificate to them, via their school.

The passport is a valuable document, please ensure they do not lose it. If you have not got a Passport for Learning please contact The Children's University and request one.

To find out more about the programme please visit www.thechildrensuniversity.org and follow the links to Kent and Learning in the Wild.