Canterbury Cathedral has a tradition of visitor welcome that reaches back to the days of medieval pilgrimage. To all visitors we extend a warm welcome and hope that they will enjoy sharing with us the beauty of one of the great holy places of Christendom.

The Cathedral and its history

St Augustine, sent by Pope Gregory the Great, arrived in 597 AD as a missionary and became the first Archbishop, establishing his seat (or 'Cathedra') in Canterbury. In 1170 Archbishop Thomas Becket was murdered in the Cathedral and ever since, the Cathedral has attracted thousands of pilgrims, as told most famously in Geoffrey Chaucer's Canterbury Tales.

Today the Cathedral is still very much a working, living church and community, where Services, sung by our world-renowned choir, take place every day and where stonemasons and stained glass conservators continue the tradition of restoring old and adding new. For many millions of Anglicans all over the world the Cathedral is their Mother Church and the place where the Archbishop of Canterbury celebrates and presides over ceremonial Services.

World Heritage Site

Canterbury Cathedral, St Augustine's Abbey and St Martin's Church make up Canterbury's World Heritage Site. St Martin's Church, the building in which Augustine and his followers first worshipped, is the oldest working church in England. The ruins of St Augustine's Abbey include the remains of the monastery where his monks lived and worshipped and where Kentish Kings and the first Archbishops were buried.

The Precincts

The Cathedral is set within its own walled Precincts and surrounded by medieval buildings and ruins. Each building has its own story to tell - from the Water Tower, a Romanesque gem once the centre of the monastic water supply, to the monastery's Granary, Bakery and Brewery now part of King's School. The Chapter House, the largest of its kind in England, with its lofty oak roof and noble seat for the Prior, still stands as a tribute to the monks who assembled here daily to discuss the Cathedral's business and who made the Cathedral into one of the most important churches in the world.

The Nave

One of the most magnificent surviving examples of English Perpendicular Gothic the present Nave was built in the 14th century, taking 28 years to complete and replacing a much smaller Romanesque Nave. Its tall columns rise up to meet in delicate vaulted arches and gilt roof bosses.

The Quire and Trinity Chapel

The Quire was re-built and extended in the 12th century after a disastrous fire destroyed the earlier structure. It housed Thomas Becket's shrine until it was demolished and removed during the Reformation by order of Henry VIII. Beautiful stained glass windows illustrate miracles and stories associated with St Thomas.

The Crypt

The Crypt is the oldest part of the Cathedral and the largest of its period in the country. It dates back to the 11th century and is Romanesque in style. Many of its details survive intact, including traces of contemporary wall painting in St Gabriel's Chapel and an array of carved capitals and decorated columns.

The Martyrdom

Canterbury's role as one of the world's most important pilgrimage centres is inextricably linked with the martyrdom of its most famous Archbishop, Thomas Becket, in 1170. When, after a long lasting dispute, King Henry II is said to have exclaimed 'Who will rid me of this turbulent priest?' four knights set off for Canterbury and murdered Thomas in his own Cathedral. A sword stroke was so violent that it sliced the crown off his skull and shattered the blade's tip on the pavement. The murder took place in what is now known as The Martyrdom. Two years later Thomas was made a saint.

Een warm welkom

Al sinds de middeleeuwen biedt de kathedraal van Canterbury een warm welkom aan haar bezoekers. Wij hopen ook u te mogen verwelkomen en wensen u een aangenaam bezoek.

De kathedraal en haar geschiedenis

De kathedraal van Canterbury is de moederkerk van de Anglikaanse Gemeenschap sinds de komst van Augustinus in 597 AD. Augustinus werd gezonden door Paus Gregorius de Grote om hier zijn zetel ('cathedra') te vestigen en de eerste Aartsbisschop te worden. In 1170 werd Aartsbisschop Thomas Becket in de kathedraal vermoord en sindsdien heeft de kathedraal duizenden pelgrims aangetrokken.

De kathedraal staat bekend om haar prachtige glas-in-lood ramen die dateren uit de 12e en 13e eeuw en die wonderen, koninklijke connecties en bijbel verhalen beschrijven. De Crypte, romaans van stijl, dateert uit de 11e eeuw, het Koor uit de 12e eeuw en het Schip uit de 14e eeuw.

Herzlich Willkommen!

Seit den Tagen der mittelalterlichen Pilgerfahrten ist es Tradition der Kathedrale von Canterbury, ihre Besucher willkommen zu heißen. Alle unsere Besucher begrüßen wir herzlich, und hoffen, dass sie ihren Besuch genießen.

Die Kathedrale und ihre Geschichte

Die Kathedrale von Canterbury ist die Mutterkirche der Anglikanischen Kirche, seit Augustin, der von Papst Gregor dem Großen gesandt wurde, hier im Jahre 597 seinen Sitz (oder "Cathedra") etablierte, und der erste Erzbischof wurde.

Im Jahre 1170 wurde Erzbischof Thomas Becket in der Kathedrale ermordet. Seit dieser Zeit hat die Kathedrale tausende von Pilgern angezogen.

Besonders beachtenswert sind die schönen Farbglasfenster, die größtenteils aus dem 12. und 13. Jahrhundert stammen. Sie stellen Wunderheilungen und Bibelgeschichten dar, und illustrieren Verbindungen zum Königshaus. Die romanische Krypta stammt aus dem 11. Jahrhundert, der Chor aus dem 12. und das Kirchenschiff aus dem 14. Jahrhundert.

Un accueil chaleureux

La Cathédrale de Canterbury a pour tradition d'accueillir chaleureusement tous les visiteurs et ce depuis le temps des pèlerinages médiévaux. Nous vous souhaitons à tous la bienvenue ainsi qu'une bonne visite.

La Cathédrale et son histoire

La Cathédrale de Canterbury est la Mère Eglise de la religion anglicane depuis qu'Augustin, envoyé par le Pape Grégoire le Grand, est arrivé en 597 pour y établir son Siège ('Cathedra') et devenir le premier archevêque de Canterbury.

En 1170, l'archevêque Thomas Becket fut assassiné dans la Cathédrale et depuis ce jour, celle-ci attire des milliers des pèlerins.

La Cathédrale est réputée pour ses magnifiques vitraux datant du 12ème et 13ème siècle qui représentent des miracles, des événements royaux et bibliques. La Crypte romane remonte au 11ème siècle, le Chœur est du 12ème et la Nef du 14ème.

The Cathedral is the essence of Canterbury, but the city is multi-faceted, containing all the elements of a modern and vibrant cultural centre.

Restaurants, pubs, nightclubs and live music venues underpin the city's endless appeal. Theatregoers have the choice of the city centre's renowned Marlowe Theatre or the Gulbenkian Theatre at the University of Kent at Canterbury, while every October, the Canterbury Festival invigorates the city with music and arts rarely seen out of London.

The city is best explored on foot, and visitors who take the time to walk the maze of intriguing side streets will find a rich variety of specialist shops, welcoming cafés and pubs in which to relax. Alternatively take a stroll along the banks of the River Stour as it passes through the city.

You will fall in love with this beautiful city where the present keeps in step with the past.... After all, Canterbury is simply inspirational.
